

Draping Tools Supply List

Scissors: One pair for fabric; One for paper (mark this pair “Paper Only” so all who grab scissors from your workspace know 😊)

Rulers:

L Square

French Curve

Hip Curve

Vary Curve

Clear Ruler (2” x 18” best – but use what you have)

Yardstick

Pins: #17 Stainless Steel Pins can be used on most draped muslin patterns. However, when draping in finer fabrics, consider using the dressmaker pins so you don’t damage your fabric.

Pin Holders: Have something to keep your pins in. Good idea to have a magnet as an option in the event that you drop any pins or needles on the floor. Also, another option is to have a wrist pincushion so you can have easy access to pins as you drape.

Muslin

Comes in various weights – lightweight, medium and heavyweight cotton. Will be used to drape basic patterns. As you move on to draping your ideal garments, work with the weight of muslin that best mimics your desired garment fabric. If you want a knit dress, be sure to drape in a similar weight knit. No muslin . . . have some old sheets or old table cloths 😊

Style Tape: for placement of your garment style lines on dress form. Narrow black tends to work best.

Dress Form

Pencils: Sharp pencils (#2) and a pencil sharpener. (I like to have one mechanical pencil around as well).

Colored Pencils: Red/Blue will be used for muslin corrections. If your mistakes go beyond these two colors, you’ll need to add some other colored pencils 😊

Felt Markers

Tape Measure: Helpful if it has inches and cm noted

Draping Tools Supply List Cont'd

Tracing Wheel: Smooth and serrated (one with spikes)

Pattern Making Paper: One with blue letters, numbers and "+" on one side is great but use whatever you have (craft paper, etc.)

Oaktag Paper

Pattern Notcher

Push Pins

Awl: (if you don't have, can get away with push pin or something else sharp to punch hole in paper/oaktag)

Tracing Paper: Waxed type in different colors

Chalk – used for marking fabric where tracing paper is not appropriate

Needle/Thread – can be used to mark true bias line when draping directly on dress form

Join me on:

YouTube: <https://www.youtube.com/user/Cenojyk>

New instructional videos released every Saturday.

Instagram: @cenojyk.llc

Website: www.cenojyk.com

Remember to be a blessing to someone else today.

You stay blessed. I'll see you in the next video.

Until then, keep calm & keep creating ☺.